DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (e) the invention was described in-
- (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effect under this subsection of a national application published under section 122(b) only if the international application designating the United States was published under Article 21(2)(a) of such treaty in the English language; or
- (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that a patent shall not be deemed filed in the United States for the purposes of this subsection based on the filing of an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a).
- 2. Claims 2-3 and 5-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by US Patent No. 6,194,775 to Usami.

Regarding claim 2, Usami (figure 3) teaches a semiconductor device, comprising:

- a semiconductor substrate (1);
- a first insulating film (2) formed on the semiconductor substrate;
- a polysilicon resistor film (6, 7) formed on the first insulating film (2);
- a second insulating film (9) formed on the resistor film (6, 7),

It is inherent that the insulating film (13) is a high heat conductor film consisting of a highly heat-conducting material (silicon oxide) formed on the second insulating film (9).

Usami further discloses a pair of terminal wirings (11, 12) formed on the second insulating film (9) and connected to the resistor film (6, 7), wherein a thickness of the high heat conductor film (13) is thicker than a thickness of the resistor film (6, 7).

Art Unit: 2811

Regarding claim 3, Usami teaches the thickness of the high heat conductor film (13) is twice the thickness of the resistor film (6, 7) or thicker.

Regarding claim 5, Usami teaches the high heat conductor film (13) is united with one of the terminal wirings (11, 12).

Regarding claim 6, Usami (figure 3) teaches a semiconductor device, comprising:

a semiconductor substrate (1);

a first insulating film (2) formed on the semiconductor substrate (1);

a polysilicon resistor film (6, 7) formed on the first insulating film (2);

a second insulating film (9) formed on the resistor film (6, 7),

It is inherent that the insulating film (13) is a high heat conductor film consisting of a highly heat-conducting material (silicon oxide) formed on the second insulating film (9).

Usami further discloses a pair of terminal wirings (11, 12) formed on the second insulating film (9) and connected to the resistor film (6, 7), wherein a thickness of the second insulating film (9) located above the resistor film is thinner than a thickness of the resistor film (6, 7), and a thickness of the high heat conductor film (13) is thicker than a thickness of the resistor film (6, 7).

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claim 4 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

4. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The most closely related art, US Patent No. 6,194,775 to Usami. Usami does not anticipate or render the claimed invention such as a width of the high heat conductor film is wider than a width of the resistor film.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 04/14/03 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

It is argued, in page 2 of the remarks, that Usami does not teach or suggest the high heat conductor film consisting of a highly heat conducting material formed on the second insulating film. This argument is not convincing because Usami teaches the insulating film (13) is a high heat conductor film consisting of a highly heat-conducting material (silicon oxide) formed on the second insulating film (9). Additionally, the silicon oxide is good heat dissipation as taught by US Patent No. 6,411,155 to Pezzani (column 2, lines 37-43).

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
